

Patrick LEES

Member- Renewables, Future Energy Leaders Community

Patrick has spent the last decade on the generation side of renewables — from project development and finance to securing long-term power purchase agreements across OX2's five European markets. Having managed the development of a 1.2 GW offshore wind project in Finland, he has a holistic overview of all stages of the development and realization of renewable energy projects, from early stage site selection to locking in the offtake for the energy. To broaden his outlook on the energy transition, Patrick has been an active member in the World Energy Council — as a Future Energy Leader alumnus and currently the Vice Chair of WEC Finland — a network spanning 70+ countries across the full energy value chain, giving him a perspective that reaches beyond renewables into grids, demand and system-level policy.
